THE SOHMER HARMONY CHART.

SOHMER & Co., manufacturers of the celebrated Sohmer Piano, have just issued "The Sohmer Harmony Chart, which they have patented in all countries. The Chart is a practical manual of major and minor scales, intervals and principal chords, and is of untold value both to the teacher and the student—to the finished musician as well as to the novice. By the instantaneous adjustment of a center slide the Chart shows at a glance the relation between the major and minor keys, indicates the sharps and flats in these keys, gives the eight degrees of the major and minor scale, teaches the principal chords of every key, and determines the intervals of which the principal chords are composed. The Chart has received the unqualified endorsement of every professor of music to whose notice it has been brought, and teachers of theory, of the voice, or of any instrument will find it a boon both to themselves and to their pupils, as by its use any one, even though entirely ignorant of music, may rapidly acquire a working knowledge of harmony. Added to its sterling educational features is the very evident fact that Sohmer & Co. have spared no expense in its manufacture, and are offering to the music-loving public an article that, on account of its artistic workmanship and harmonious combination of colors, is an ornament to any piano or music rest. The Sohmer Harmony Chart is of convenient size, 6½x14 inches. Its low price ($1.00), puts it within the reach of all, and every teacher of music and student of the art should become possessed of one at once.

A SYMPHONY IN PUNS.

During the sermon one of the quartette fell asleep.

"Now's your chants," said the organist to the soprano; "see if you canticle the tenor."

"You wouldn't dare duet," said the contralto.

"You'll wake hymn up," suggested the bass.

"I can make a better pun than that, as sure as my name's Psalm," remarked the boy who pumped the organ; but he said it solo that no one quartet.—Ex.

ART AND MUSIC AT THE EXPOSITION.

The eighteenth Annual St. Louis Exposition opens Monday, September 9th. The art display will be one of the best on record. It will be essentially a St. Louis display, in that this exhibit, partaking of the nature of a loan collection, will represent the art culture of St. Louis in a most gratifying way.

To this end the art committee has invited local collectors to send in their paintings, sculpture, prints and bronzes and the catalogue will show that St. Louis in recent years has added measurably to its store of the world's masterpieces.

The committee has also secured many renowned canvases, the most important being the famous classic nude, Psyche, by the celebrated French artist Lefevre. Other great works will be on exhibition, and a feature will be made of the recent progress of the art of newspaper illustration.

The Exposition Band, under the leadership of Charles P. Seymour, goes back to Music Hall this year, the Coliseum having been reserved for a series of special displays that will have for their object certain preliminary World's Fair work. Mr. Seymour has incorporated a heavy string section among his instrumentalists, this departure being made to reduce the strident quality of the reeds and brasses. The resultant tone-volume, as frequently demonstrated in recent rehearsals, is wondrously mellow, partaking more of the symphonic form and being more adapted to the presentation of the classic masterpieces, the careful public study of which is being more and more regarded by the discerning as a necessity.

The festival chorus will sing every Friday evening with the band, and should attendance warrant these mass concerts will be of more frequent occurrence. The chorus now numbers more than 500 trained voices. The interest evinced at rehearsals would indicate that the quality of music to be presented will be a strong feature of the coming show.

The entire force of the Exposition scenic artists, who gave so good an account of themselves during the opera last winter, for some time has been at work in the Coliseum preparing for a panoramic display of living pictures illustrative of the Louisiana Purchase. These illuminated canvases and the groupings before them of beautifully costumed living characters will constitute the first local attempt on a large scale to portray the salient features of the great event 100 years ago by which the firmest foundation stones of the American republic were laid.

The commercial and mechanical departments will be fully up to the standard. Among the prominent displays is that of the Southern Railway, which brings to the exposition its entire forestry exhibit as recently brought from Paris. The exhibit of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum should be of special interest to merchants. It will occupy most of the main floor of the west nave. It is intended to show the best means of advancing commercial intercourse with the Central and South American states.

CONCERNING TWO NOTED SINGERS.

The names of Mario and Grisi will always conjure up in the mind of the music student pictures of phenomenal successes, and the following, from the Pall Mall Magazine, will be interesting to all who are familiar with the names of these artists of a by-gone time:

"Mario was very particular as to his costume; cotton velvet affected his nerves. He wore very high heels on the stage, his boots for some time having metal side-springs. The Paris bootmaker ultimately, however, hit upon india-rubber. His jewels he always gave to his wife, from the proceeds of whose jewel-case a house in the Rue des Bassius in Paris was built. He was an inveterate smoker, having been seen to take a sponge bath with a lighted cigar in his mouth. Grisi acted as business manager for both, Mario being generally immersed in clay modeling or antiquarian reading. Grisi practiced only half an hour a day; Mario contented himself with exercising his voice for ten minutes immediately before his appearance on the stage.

Both were nervous till after the first act. Neither knew much of musical theory. They learned their parts by heart, being very careful first to make themselves completely master of the full significance of the words. They were both highly superstitious. The number thirteen must not be mentioned before them. Mario even effaced it from doors, that his wife might not see it. Grisi was 5 ft. 2 in. in height, with raven black hair, blue eyes, and pale complexion; she never used paint. England was her pays de predilection, and she lived successively at Fulham, Putney, Clapham Park, Turnham Green, and Streatham. She died in 1869. Mario sang for the last time in 'La Favorita' two years later, being then over sixty."

DIPLOMAS AND MERIT.

The stress laid upon the value of diploma is as pathetic as it is ridiculous. A diploma, says Music Trade Review, is no more an assurance of ability than a marriage certificate is proof of affection and congeniality between the contracting parties. The young girl may regard this piece of paper with the romance which it is to be hoped has not been eliminated from her by an understanding of the cold, calculating world, but many realize that the certificate represents nothing but a bit of legal paper.

The diplomas are the most deceiving of all ruses, and many who issue them could not pass examinations of any sort, nor could their instruction be of practical benefit in the slightest degree. Yet there is a class of people, and unfortunately a large one, upon whom the diploma has a very strong hold. These people have no way of knowing good from bad, and believe that something must represent authority.

Now, as a pitiful matter of fact, in the musical field there is no such thing as positive authority. Taking a teacher is much the same as eating mushrooms—if you live it was a mushroom, if you die it was a toadstool. In a day when reputations can be manufactured by the column, those searching instruction have absolutely nothing upon which to depend. It is only a matter of into whose reclameure they happen to fall, these proclaimers being paid servants to sing praises of this or that teacher. The condition is very pitiable. In every other profession there is something that represents authority, but not in music in America.

One diploma is worth no more than another because they all emanate from individual sources, the government having nothing to do with the issuance of them. And if it had, it would still give no value to the diploma, for unless a special board of musical regents were the authority to pass the decisions, what would the governmental stamp amount to? To no more than does the present diploma of any institution, which is a cipher without the ring around it.

MRS. CLEMENCE ROBYN, wife of Prof. Wm. and mother of Alfred G. Robyn, died at the family residence, 3714 Pine street, surrounded by her family of six children.

Mrs. Robyn's last illness was largely due to the excessive heat this summer. She was born in Alsace, and came to St. Louis in 1850. She was a fine musician, and joined the choir of the old St. Xavier's College church, where she met her husband, Prof. Wm. Robyn, who was then the organist of the church. Two years later they were married.

Mrs. Robyn's children are Paul, Alfred G., Noel L., and Misses Clemence, Clara and Marie Robyn.

The funeral took place from St. Francis Xavier's church. High Mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Father Bronsgeest, S. J. The honorary pall-bearers were Eugene Karst, Philip Karst, Francis Kuhn, William J. Crow, J. C. Bury and Anthony Roeslein.

Many a woman is so exquisitely organized that the strains of music cause her to forget to eat or drink until reminded of the necessity by physical exhaustion, but the Nineteenth Century Woman never forgets to be daintily clothed, and she knows too that the place of all others to buy exactly what she wants at just the price she can afford to pay, is

CROWN

PIANO

Is the culmination of more than a century's effort to make the piano an instrument of many and varied tones. Ever since the introduction of the piano, the attainment of this end has been regarded as the highest possible achievement in the development of the piano. From the CLAVICHORD to the many-tone "CROWN" PIANO is a long step, embracing centuries of continuous and painstaking effort which slowly but surely wrought out the development of the piano class of musical instruments, until there was evolved the piano of many tones—the "CROWN"

Some of its Distinctive Qualities are: Perfection and variety of tone, a perfect scale, lightness and responsiveness of touch, repeating capabilities of action, a perfect practice clavier, (found in no other piano), greatly enlarged capacity, almost unlimited capability for the faithful rendition of music, some of which has heretofore been outside of the possibilities of the piano, elegant and unique case designs, and the greatest durability.

S OUSA AND HIS UNIFORM.

Mr. Sousa, the March King, wears his uniform at all times and seasons. He compels his men to do likewise and the fact that he does so leads to experiences, says the Presto, that are very laughable to him.

Mr. Sousa was standing in a large building in Philadelphia waiting for the elevator. A man came up to him rapidly and said: "What is the number of Mr. Blank's office?"

"I don't know," said the short man in the blue uniform.

"Well, isn't he in this building?" asked the man.

"I don't know," answered Mr. Sousa.

"Well, don't you know anything?" said the man. "If I knew any one here I would report you."

At which Mr. Sousa shouted with laughter, and the man, catching sight of the genuine elevator boy, saw he had somehow made a mistake.

Again, Mr. Sousa was standing in a railway station, on the platform, waiting for a train. A belated traveler ran up to him and shouted: "Has the 9:03 train pulled out?"

"I really don't know," answered the man with the blue uniform.

"Well, why don't you know?" shouted the irate traveler. "What are you standing here for like a log of wood. Aren't you a conductor?"

"Yes," said Mr. Sousa, "I am a conductor."

"A nice sort of a conductor you are!" exclaimed the traveler.

"Well, you see," said Mr. Sousa, "I am not the conductor of the train; I am the conductor of a brass band."

NORDICA TO OPEN NEW WAGNER THEATRE.

Mme. Lillian Nordica has been selected to open the new Wagner Theatre in Munich, in September. The great contralto will sing Isolde in "Tristan and Isolde."

During the engagement she will also sing Elsa in "Lohengrin."

Mme. Nordica studied both roles under Mme. Wagner's direction. Her work as Isolde was so indefatigable that she had to leave three hotels at Lucerne. Afterward she and Mme. Wagner did their work in a single room above a hair-dressing shop. Mme. Wagner selects her for Elsa in preference to every other prima donna on the operatic stage.

SIXTY-EIGHT compositions are in the hands of the judges who are to award the prize in the triennial contest instituted by Paderewski.

There are thirty-one orchestral works (symphonies, symphonic poems, overtures), nine choral works, and twenty-eight pieces of chamber-music. The judges are William Gericke, B. J. Lang, Carl Zerrahn, W. F. Apthorp, H. E. Krehbiel, W. J. Henderson, Henry T. Fink, James Huneker, and Samuel Sanford. A decision is not expected before fall.

THE engagements already booked for Mr. Sherwood indicate that the coming one will be a busy season for the great pianist, and he is much gratified at the activity displayed by his manager, Mr. Charles R. Baker. Engagements have already been booked in several parts of the country. He will be heard in joint recitals with others of Mr. Baker's artists, as well as in individual programs.

A Gem for the Parlor or Concert!

THE MISERERE.

From "IL TROVATORE."

— Piano Solo by Charles Kunkel.

RETAIL PRICE - $1.50

This beautiful piece embodies the great Miserere Scene opening the fourth act of Verdi's popular opera, "Il Trovatore."

The Miserere Scene is one of the greatest inspirations ever conceived by genius, and if Verdi had written only this one scene, it would suffice to send his name down to posterity.

In the paraphrase of this scene, the author has endeavored to vividly portray the tone color of the original score.

Charles Kunkel never wrote a more effective piece. Both teacher and pupil will be delighted with this superb number.

It has a magnificent title page and the words of the music are given separately in the preface.

Nothing has been left undone that will make this beautiful work a revelation to piano players.
